hi Deb,

I've been looking for your mug for you, can you please remind me of what it looked like?

thanks!

Hi Stephanie,

Thanks for your help.

Actually, the bigger issue right now is the issue of audio files for Vic since UCG represented he was included as a student and this is an issue of UCG's willingness to conduct itself in good faith in its dealings with others.

Let's get an answer to this before we worry about resolving the mug issue.

Thanks!

Love,
Debbie

Dear Mr. Myers,

First, I'd like to thank you for sponsoring my attendance at ABC, and I'm sorry that you all decided to kick me out of the program the way that you did.

As indicated in my e-mail to you last night, I realized that I would not be able to graduate with my class because various issues (family responsibilities, family illness, job losses, etc.) had caused me to miss too many classes for it to make sense for me to be able to graduate with the rest of the class given that circumstance, but I was looking forward to finishing the program.

This did not seem to be an unreasonable thing given the fact that other students who have had to miss classes, been unable to complete the program have been allowed to make them up later, and I'd hoped to discuss the matter with you today, because when I started ABC I was told by Mr. Antion that I was to turn in paperwork for / discuss absences with you after the fact.

You'd continued sending me handouts, etc., and I was still included on the class page and invited to some ABC functions -- all of which led me to believe that I was still a student in good standing with the program.

However, Mr. Antion had written a letter dated 4-3-2013 informing me that I had been dismissed from the program and was not allowed to attend any more classes or functions for ABC. No one in charge of the program even bothered to call or contact me or Victor to inquire regarding my absences or when I expected to be able to return.

I did not even see Mr. Antion's letter until last night.

Because both Victor and I were accepted to the program together, and we paid the fees requested in advance
- because no effort was made to talk with or work with me about the situation prior to the letter from Mr. Antion
- and no effort was made to contact Victor (who is also a student and was listed as my emergency contact) - there was/is genuine cause for us to doubt the good faith of your program's administrators.

Since no one from your offices has bothered to reply to my inquiry regarding the audio files for Victor (who is also a student, and for whom I had retrieved audio files when I was absent and unable to take notes), I had a discussion with Aaron Creech (who is our Class President) this morning regarding the matter when I was obliged to stop by to pick up items I'd loaned on behalf of the program.

He said he would look into it to see if something could be worked out.

I have a flash drive and would be willing to provide pre-addressed postage paid envelopes, to make things easier for you guys in this regard.

Please let me know if this is amenable to you.

Kind regards,

Deborah [REDACTED]

Dear Mr. Antion,

I'm glad to hear that things went well with your granddaughter's surgery and hope she is feeling better soon.

I'm sorry that it was unclear to me from your message to me yesterday whether or not your group's position is that you have no intention or willingness to share audio files from the classes I was obliged to miss because I was needed to help my family and for which I was still receiving handouts, or whether your message in the matter was merely regarding the fact that your group did not want to share those files with Victor?

I hope you can at least understand our confusion on this, and that this is what my question is attempting to resolve.

I have received handouts for many classes since your letter, which I appreciate. That, and my continued inclusion on the student page and invitations to ABC functions during that time, gave an impression that I was still considered a student in good standing. Of course, I realize from your letter that this is not the case.

I understand from your letter that you and your friends have no wish for me to return to classes or to attend any school functions (including attending commencement as a guest to congratulate my classmates and wish them success).

However, it would be nice for me to be able to have MP3s of the classes for which you guys have sent me handouts.

I cannot tell from your message to me yesterday whether you are saying you have no intention of considering or honoring such a request. I could assume that the answer is no, but I would prefer to give you the benefit of the doubt - that based on the fact that I'd continued receiving handouts from the classes, there was a desire to try to continue working together in good faith. This is why I am asking the question that I am asking.

If the answer is "No, we have no intention of sharing those audio files with you - we just want you to go away," that is your prerogative, and I will accept your decision.

The reason I am asking is because I have something in my possession that I received via your program that I did not realize I had earlier in the week, when I got your letter and you guys returned most of our items loaned via auspices of your program that I will need to return.

If there is simply a misunderstanding and your group is willing to share the audio files with me from the classes for which your group represented that I was still considered a student in good standing, I will be happy to try to bring the flash drive for them when stopping by to return the other item. If not, then I will simply try to make arrangements to return the other item.

Please let me know.

If I don't receive an answer from you 6 p.m. this coming Sunday (April 21), I will conclude that it is your group's desire not to share the audio files from those classes with me.

Thanks again for allowing me to attend the program last year and earlier this year.

Kind regards,

Deborah [REDACTED]

Hi!

We are in Canada for some meetings and Sabbath Services. I'm not sure this will go through as I only have my Blackberry. I'll look into getting you the missed classes.
